NEWCELX
REGENERATING LIFE

Open Position: Laboratory Research Associate

A growing Biotechnology company is seeking a talented and motivated Laboratory Research Associate to join our expanding R&D team. The position involves hands-on molecular biology an microbiology work as part of a dynamic multidisciplinary projects in synthetic biology and bioprocess development

Position Description:

A very dynamic atmosphere that combines research and product development for the treatment of diabetes using cell therapy. The work combines several areas of expertise: work in quantitative growth systems (bioreactors and growth systems in suspension), developmental biology, sterile work in cell cultures, biomaterials and molecular biology

The work includes conducting and managing laboratory experiments according to SOP, writing reports and working with other departments in the company.

Location:

Science Park in Rehovot, Israel

Send your CVs to: info@newcelx.com